

The letter for – Her Birthday

Hey lady,

You're an excellent human being! I hope you hear that as often as you deserve to. Wishing you a wonderful birthday, in all of the very ordinary ways that make your heart sing. Grand gestures are a treat of course, but the joy to be found in spending time with your favourite people and sharing your favourite food with them while clinking a glass of your favourite tippie to theirs, well that's something truly spectacular.

Well wishes via the screen of your phone are tiny treasures that sparkle through your day and phone calls with familiar voices are like hugs from afar. I hope you feel celebrated. I hope you feel how special you are in the lives of those you love and who love you right back. I hope you dance freely and kiss often and laugh till you snort. I hope you leave the tidying and chores for another day that's not all about you, in place of exactly the thing you want to do today.

You're a gem baby, a big flashy gorgeous gem and I am grateful – and so smug – that our lives are so entangled in each other's.

Happy Birthday!

@ladyloveletters