

The letter for – When She's Smashing Goals

Hey lady,

Look at you! Setting big audacious goals and smashing them to pieces! Congratulations! I'm so proud of you, you phenomenal woman. You're at the other side of that process, basking the after glow of all that hard work. KICKING ASS.

I saw the determination you displayed, the sacrifices you made and the commitment you held firm. I hope you're beyond proud of yourself. Because damn, you should be lady. This was all you. The vision, the planning, the work, the completion. You and your fabulous self.

Please know that I'll be cheering you on the sidelines of whatever comes next, and next, and next after that. While the work is all you, your village is strong in our belief of you, in your dreams, in your capabilities, in this beautiful life you're building by sheer decision, determination and action.

Go little rockstar!

Lady, take up that space.

@ladyloveletters